Implementation of Security Council resolution 1929 (2010) concerning the Islamic Republic of Iran by the Republic of Belarus

The Belarus Ministry of Foreign Affairs duly informed the competent national authorities of the adoption of United Nations Security Council resolution 1929 (2010) and of the need to implement the provisions contained therein, including the measures provided for in paragraphs 7 to 19 and 21 to 24.

Belarus legislation stipulates that any activities relating to specific goods, or works or services, including activities indicated in paragraphs 7, 8 and 9 of the resolution, may only be performed by legal entities of the Republic of Belarus and only with special licences. None of the companies granted special licences are legal entities constituted with Iranian capital.

The Belarus State authorities authorized to issue licences for the export or import of armaments have taken measures to prevent the following:

- The supply, sale or transfer to Iran of armaments and military equipment as defined for the purpose of the United Nations Register of Conventional Arms or related materiel, including spare parts;
- The provision of technical training, financial resources or services, advice and other services or assistance, in compliance with paragraph 8 of resolution 1929 (2010);
- The transfer of the technology or technical assistance described in paragraph 9 of the resolution.

The lists of items, materials, equipment, goods and technology reproduced in documents INFCIRC/254/Rev.9/Part 1, INFCIRC/254/Rev.7/Part 2 and S/2010/263 have been incorporated into Belarus export control legislation.

In accordance with current legislation, the competent authorities of the Republic of Belarus maintain close scrutiny of the individuals and legal entities referred to in relevant documents of the Security Council, with a view to preventing activities prohibited by Security Council resolutions.

All cargo at Belarus airports is inspected in accordance with customs legislation, including cargo being transported to and from Iran. The Republic of Belarus does so in order to comply with its international obligations, including those relating to non-proliferation and arms control. If it detects items the supply, sale, transfer or export of which are prohibited by paragraphs 3, 4 or 7 of resolution 1737 (2006), paragraph 5 of resolution 1747 (2007), paragraph 8 of resolution 1803 (2008) or paragraphs 8 and 9 of resolution 1929 (2010), the Republic of Belarus will take the action provided for in paragraphs 16 and 17 of resolution 1929 (2010).

Financial organizations have been instructed to ensure that their activities comply with the resolutions concerning the provision of financial services, transactions involving financial assets or resources, and relations with Iranian banks and financial institutions.

1. Singapore has taken note of the adoption of Security Council resolution 1929 (2010) and is committed to the implementation of the provisions of the relevant operative paragraphs. In this regard, Singapore has the necessary legislative framework in place to meet its obligations under resolution 1929 (2010). (For a detailed description of the legislation, refer to the national reports of Singapore on the implementation of Security Council resolutions 1737 (2006) and 1747 (2007), contained in documents S/AC.50/2007/45 and S/AC.50/2007/116.)

Pursuant to the designation of entities by the Security Council Committee established pursuant to resolution 1737 (2006), MAS had previously gazetted the Monetary Authority of Singapore (Freezing of Assets of Persons — Iran) Regulations 2007. To give full effect to the operative paragraphs of resolution 1929 (2010) that are relevant to the financial institutions, the MAS (Freezing of Assets of Persons — Iran) Regulations 2007 were amended via the MAS (Freezing of Assets of Persons — Iran) (Amendment) Regulations 2010 on 30 July 2010.

3. The Strategic Goods (Control) Act (Cap. 300) and the Regulation of Imports and Exports Act (Cap. 272A) and its Regulations, together allow Singapore to implement operative paragraphs 8 and 9 of resolution 1929 (2010) by controlling the export, re-export, trans-shipment and transit of goods related to weapons of mass destruction as well as controls on brokering and intangible transfers of technology. The Regulation of Imports and Exports Act (Cap. 272A) and its Regulations provide the framework under which Singapore regulates and controls general imports and exports. Singapore will be undertaking amendments to the Regulation of Imports and Exports Regulations' Seventh Schedule — Prohibited Imports from and Exports to (Including Goods in Transit Bound for) Country or Territory in order to give full effect to the relevant provisions in resolution 1929 (2010).

Merchant Shipping Act

4. Under section 43 of the Merchant Shipping Act (Cap. 179), the Maritime Port Authority of Singapore may close the registry of a Singapore ship and cancel its certificate of registry. This statutory provision may be invoked in appropriate cases to enforce the relevant portions of resolution 1929 (2010).

United Nations Act

5. The United Nations Act (Cap. 339) was enacted in October 2001 to enable the Government of Singapore to give effect to binding decisions of the Security Council through secondary legislation, in areas not covered by existing legislation, without the need to enact additional primary legislation. Regulations made under this Act have the force of law and entail criminal penalties, notwithstanding anything to the contrary in any other law apart from the Singapore Constitution. These regulations apply to all persons and entities in Singapore and Singapore citizens outside Singapore. The United Nations (Sanctions — Iran) Regulations 2007 give effect to Security Council resolutions 1737 (2006) and 1747 (2007).
